

Fact Sheet Decro® Doors

- Exclusive to Steel-Line, Decro® Doors replicate the look and texture of real timber with the added strength and security of steel.
- The Decro® range of sectional doors are manufactured using an innovative and exclusive process incorporating powder-coating and special polymers to create a natural looking, three-dimensional textured timber finish on high-quality steel.
- Decro Doors® are impervious to termite and insect attack, require less maintenance and labour than traditional timber products and have shorter lead times as opposed to timber doors.
- Unlike real timber products, Decro® Doors resist warping, shrinkage and cracking and do not pose a fire hazard.
- The Decro® Door range is manufactured using high quality Australian product such as BlueScope Colorbond® Steel and the process, Decorel surface coatings was developed in Italy And fine tuned by Steel-Line for the Australian market.

- The process is environmentally responsible, eliminating the need to log Australian forests to source timber.

- A Decro® Door is a cost effective alternative for creating an up-market aesthetic look for any home and is approximately 40% cheaper than using real timber.
- There are four timber tones available in the range, based on true Australian timber hues.
- Decro® Doors are exclusively manufactured and distributed through Steel-Line; no other garage door company offers a comparable product.
- Steel-Lines' range of Decro® Sectional overhead garage doors also incorporate clever safety technology such as "finger proof" joints to safeguard your family from injury, nylon hinges to create a quieter, smoother running door and aluminium bottom rail with a PVC weather seal to keep out the elements.
- Steel-Line is an Australian based Garage Door company and when you deal with Steel-Line you are dealing direct with the manufacturer.
